A NEWSLETTER FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

Volume 4, Issue 1

Fall 2003

This is the fourth volume of History at Lehigh, the official newsletter of the Department of History at Lehigh University. History at Lehigh is published twice per year in an effort to maintain contact and share information with students, alumni, and faculty. Please let us know if you have information or updates you would like to see appear in future issues of History at Lehigh.

Department News and Notes

Dr. John Savage presented a paper at the Institute for International Integration Studies at Trinity College in Dublin, Ireland this summer. He then spent August doing research at the Centre d'Archives d'Outre Mer in Aix-en-Provence, France with funding from a Franz faculty grant and the Gipson Institute for 18th century studies.

Dr. Michael Baylor taught at Leuven in the Lehigh in Belgium program last May and June. This was his third year teaching in a highly popular program along with Prof. James M. Maskulka of the Management and Marketing Dept. the program had 31 students. In November 2003, Dr. Baylor gave a paper entitled "Thomas Muentzer as Peasants' War Leader" at the Sixteenth Century Studies Conference in Pittsburgh which deals with the various roles he played during the greatest insurrection in premodern Europe.

Dr. Jean Soderlund received the R.R. and E.C. Hillman Faculty Award from Lehigh University that is granted on the basis of excellence in teaching or research.

Dr. Roger Simon authored Philadelphia: A Brief History. In this concise yet comprehensive account published by the Pennsylvania Historical Association, Dr. Simon captures the color, drama, and excitement of Philadelphia as it changed over 300 years from colonial port to industrial city and modern metropolis. The struggles of immigrants and African-Americans for a place in the city are recounted along with the occasional spasms of violence and modern efforts at urban renewal.

Dr. Gail Cooper reports back from MIT where she has a fellowship for the 2003-04 academic year at the Dibner Institute, a consortial institute of MIT, Harvard University, and Boston University. Located at MIT, the institute provides an office, a stipend, and library privileges at both MIT and Harvard. While there she is working on a manuscript focused on the history of quality control in U.S. and Japanese manufacturing. As one of 10 senior fellows at the institute, she has found the MIT/Harvard community wonderfully vibrant and exciting.

ORGANIZATIONS AND EVENTS

The History Club held a faculty-student mixer in the commons room on Oct. 28. The event allowed students interested in history to get to know members of the faculty and fellow students in an easy-going and informal environment. The current officers are: Andrew Murphy, President; Emily Henderson, Vice-President; and Erin Gorman, Secretary/Treasurer.

The history honor society, Phi Alpha Theta, plans on participating in a regional Phi Alpha Theta conference next April which will be held at Kutztown University.

Robert Armstrong and Erwin Pantel are serving as Chief Representatives to the Graduate Student Council for the 2003-04 academic year. In addition, Erwin is a member of the Graduate Research Committee as a representative of the GSC and on the Petitions subcommittee. He is also a graduate student representative to the University Disciplinary Committee for graduate students. Erwin is also serving on the GSC Budget Committee and the Constitution Committee this year.

Profs. Simon and Soderlund attended the 72nd Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Historical Association on October 23-25 in Harrisburg, PA. Prof. Simon presented a paper entitled "Philadelphia Revisited" and Prof. Soderlund served as chair of the Program Committee. Thomas Saxon and Robert Smith, current graduate students, also presented papers entitled "In Reduced Circumstances": Aging and Impoverished Revolutionary War Veterans and their Families" and "The Politics of Manufacturing in Revolutionary America: The Story of the Washingtonburg Arsenal at Carlisle, Pennsylvania," respectively. Lehigh alumni Craig Coenen (PhD '01) and Gary Jones (PhD '98) also presented papers.

A contingent of History Department faculty and graduate students, past and present, traveled to Atlanta, Ga. in mid-October for the 2003 annual meeting of the Society for the History of Technology. Prof. John Smith chaired a session on industrial history museums. Among the presenters in that session was Matt Sneddon (MA 1999), who is currently pursuing his PhD at the University of Washington. Matt was also the recipient of the 2003 Kranzberg Dissertation Fellowship. Prof. Gail Cooper served as the commentator for a session on technology and the idea of civic virtue. Prof. Steve Cutcliffe, who this year chaired SHOT's annual Edelstein Book Prize committee, also attended. Other former graduate students at the meeting included Ted Cavanagh (PhD 2002) who teaches at Dalhousie University, Jeff Schramm (PhD 2003), currently at the University of Missouri—Rolla; Maj. Paul Gillespie (PhD 2002), presently stationed at the USAF Staff College in Montgomery, Alabama; and Chris Eldridge (PhD 2002), who works for the National Academies' Committee on International Security and Arms Control. Chris presented a paper on Anglo-American radar development during WW II. Erwin Pantel, who is currently writing his PhD dissertation on Frank Sprague while teaching the introductory "Technology and Human Values" course for the Lehigh STS Program, also flew to Atlanta as part of the group.

STUDENT NEWS

Emily Henderson, a senior History and Religion Studies major as well as President of Phi Alpha Theta and a College Scholar, has earned one of four monetary scholar awards from the Lehigh Women's Club.
